

City WASHINGTON DC

TOP STORIES

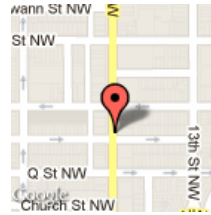

Search Curbed DC

Hickok Cole Architects

ACTIVE DISCUSSIONS / NEWEST POSTS

RENDERINGS REVEALED

14th Street Getting Forty-Eight More Apartments

LOGAN CIRCLE
COMMENTS
ABOUT 2 WEEKS AGO

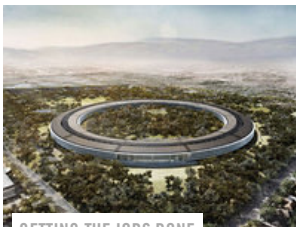

Tweet
Like 22

[Hickok Cole]

Another residential building is going to take over a parking lot near Logan Circle. This time it is the Zipcar lot at 14th and Corcoran Streets that will have a seven-story apartment building with 48 units. To keep things simple the building is called The Corcoran At 14th and since the surrounding neighborhood has pretty much everything close by there won't be much in the way of built-in amenities for the residents. Though the penthouses might have balconies and private terraces. The plan is to begin construction at the end of this year so it can be finished by the end of 2014. The building will contain about 38,000 square feet of space, but 4,000 square feet will be set aside for ground floor retail. There will also be space for fifteen parking spots.

· Seven-story building to replace Zipcar lot in Logan Circle [ElevationDC]

CURBED NATIONAL

GETTING THE JOBS DONE
16 Mindblowing Facts About Apple's Spaceship-Like HQ

EATER DC

HOT HOT HEAT!
Updating the Eater Heatmap, Where to Eat Right Now

EATER NATIONAL

ADVICE WIRE
Colicchio Advises Young Chefs to Not 'Do the TV Thing'

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER

Get daily updates and breaking news alerts from Curbed DC delivered straight to your inbox:

Your email here