

K

Photo courtesy of KDG Architecture

KDG Architecture

KDG Architecture designed an innovative environment for a company where technology and collaboration builds a foundation for seamless management solutions and tailored investments. Custom wood paneling on the reception desk mirrors the crescent in CW Capital's logo, echoing the company's pride. The first floor includes a flexible conference facility, reconfigurable based on function and size. Modernfold Glass Wall Systems offer openness with transparency between conference rooms while a translucent ted panel glides between the reception desk and waiting area. The movable glass wall system includes a high-grade stainless steel finish and flush mounted attachments, harmonizing with the contemporary interior architecture.

P

Perkins Eastman

The Board of Directors of top international architecture and design firm Perkins Eastman is pleased to announce recent promotions in the Washington, DC office. The promotions occur annually and reflect the company's commitment to building and maintaining a strong and dynamic management team across its many practice areas, multiple offices and network of affiliates.

Promotions include: Mary Rankin, RA, LEED AP BD+C - Associate Principal; Andrea Luccioli Shaw, AIA, LEED AP - Associate Principal; Christian Calleri, AIA - Senior Associate; Vijo Chertan - Senior Associate and J. Dayle Wine - Associate.

The Washington, DC office of Perkins Eastman recently hosted three university students for the Blair Phillips Scholars Summer Studio program. The program is designed for students to work closely with professionals in a collaborative and exploratory setting. Eligibility for the program is restricted to students of architecture entering their last year of undergraduate study. Architecture students selected for this year's program included: Erin Barkman, University of Maryland; Brittany Stinger, Virginia Tech and Sam Eldredge, University of Virginia.

Powe Studio Architects PC

Powe Studio Architects PC has been selected to design Market Plaza in Charlottesville, Virginia. This 310,000 SF urban mixed-use complex includes a vertical mix of 69 residential units above 52,000 SF of offices, with 18,000 SF of ground floor retail and cafe space, and

Market Plaza. Rendering courtesy of Powe Studio Architects PC

270 underground parking spaces. The L-shaped nine-story terraced building is focused around a half-acre civic plaza which will be home to the City Market and city festivals on weekends and recreational weekday activities. Powe Studio teamed with local developer Woodward Properties and was unanimously selected by City Council in response to a City RFP for the redevelopment of a full downtown city block.

Q

Mary Rankin, RA, LEED AP BD+C with Perkins Eastman

Andrea Luccioli Shaw, AIA with Perkins Eastman

Tom Jester, AIA, FAIA, LEED AP with Quinn Evans Architects

Tracy Hucal, AIA, LEED AP with Quinn Evans Architects

Dan Curry, AIA, LEED AP with Quinn Evans Architects

Abby Tsartelotte, AIA, LEED AP with Quinn Evans Architects

Quinn Evans Architects

Quinn Evans Architects is pleased to announce firm wide promotions effective 1 July 2014. "These promotions underscore the strength of our professional team and commitment to developing leadership within the company.

Through their talent, professionalism, leadership, and innovation, each of the individuals recognized have contributed to our continued evolution and growth," said Larry Barr, AIA, president of Quinn Evans Architects. Dan Curry, AIA, LEED AP to Senior Associate; Tom Jester, AIA, FAIA, LEED AP to Senior Associate; Tracy Hucal, AIA, LEED AP to Associate; Abby Tsartelotte, AIA, LEED AP to Associate.

Additional promotions include Tina Roach, AIA, LEED AP and Kathryn Slattery, AIA, LEED AP to Project Manager; Robert Fink, AIA and Kathryn Irwin, AIA, IIDA, LEED AP to Senior Project Architect;